Yesterday we wrapped up another Mix Awards North 2024 in style, gathering a who's-who of commercial interior design in Manchester for one of the most anticipated industry reunions in the calendar. Marking another record year for entries, we celebrated the latest innovations in project and product design, with our panel of expert judges crowning 20 lucky winners for their commitment to future-forward, industry-leading and environmentally conscious design.

Among our cohort of winners, tp bennett picked up not one but two awards, winning both the much-anticipated Design Practice of the Year and Project of the Year: Workplace Interiors: 5-15k sq ft for its work on Canonical, London – with judges commenting on the studio's commitment to its moral, social, health and environmental responsibilities while working globally and celebrating ten years in Manchester. Other big wins included Amtico, which went home with the gong for Mix Awards North 2024's Manufacturer of the Year, selected for its impressive dedication to sustainable production and praised by our judges as 'a market leader for a reason'. Other notable winners throughout the night included Gensler's craft-centric HQ for Etsy in Dublin, Arper's groundbreaking Catifa Carta chair, Jestico + Whiles landmark W Edinburgh project and Solus' sustainable British terrazzo – and many more.

Once we'd crowned this year's winners, the after party once again went on until the wee hours, accompanied by our guest-favourite fairground rides, world-class aerial performances, nail-biting stunts and an electric set from DJ duo Utah Saints that kept the club classics coming.

We'd like to thank our wonderful team of sponsors and judges for their ongoing support in making these awards happen, helping us to connect and celebrate the design community in the north of the UK and Ireland – we couldn't do it without you!

We'll soon be announcing plans for next year's Mix Awards and Mix Awards North, including new entry dates and information – make sure you're subscribed to the Mix newsletter to receive the all latest updates and be the first in the know.
